THE „KONGI“

The Kongi exists since 1928, when the former Kongresssquare got converted to a park and an open air bath. It was designed by architect Erich Franz Leischner and contained the last 100m-pool in Austria until 1987. With more than 10.000 visitors per day (maximum value 16.000) it's Austrias most frequented open air bath related to its square footage.

When the pool got reconstructed in 2006, the township (MA44) made it possible to play Waterpolo at the Kongi and the Viennese Swimming federation applied the training units to the Wiener Sport-Club.

Since then we played some games of the viennese regional league, some championship-games with our youth-teams and we organized the King of the Kongi for seven times. Also the Austrian Team used to train at the Kongi when they played some friendly games against Switzerland.

We hope to establish the King of the Kongi as an institution and add it to the baths vita.
